For Air Reporting, we are concerned about three contacts—the air reporting contact, the air billing contact, and the air responsible contact. The air reporting contact is the person DNR deals with regarding questions for the facility's emission inventory. If the facility emissions are charged an emission fee, the billing contact receives an environmental fee statement at the end of May. The Air Responsible Contact is the person who signs the certification form. Once the company approves of its air emission calculations and signs a certification form, the air emissions are then the legal record for that facility for that data year.
