Retirement Resolution

Roger Larson retired from the Department of Natural Resources in December 2008 having provided over 31 years of honorable and valuable service in improving water quality in the state. Roger completed his B.S. in Meteorology and M.S. in Civil Engineering and Water Resources at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. He began his career with the Department in November 1976 as an Environmental Engineer 1 in the Municipal Wastewater Section of the Bureau of Water Quality.

Within three years, Roger rapidly advanced from his initial project position to a supervisory position as Unit Leader for the Plan Review Section in the Bureau of Water Quality. In October 1989, Roger was promoted to Chief of the Clean Water Fund Section of the Bureau of Community Assistance Management. In April 1995, Roger moved to the Bureau of Wastewater Management as Chief of the Storm Water and Land Activities Section. His spirit of cooperation and teamwork, exceptional problem-solving skills, and ability to prioritize work and keep critical issues moving were recognized by his supervisors.

In September 1996, he became the Chief of the Point Source Technical Evaluation Section in the Bureau of Watershed Management. Four years later, Roger provided additional leadership by stepping into the role of Assistant Bureau Director and was hired in June 2006 as the Deputy Bureau Director for Watershed Management. His supervisor, Bureau Director Russ Rasmussen, commented, "Roger's extensive knowledge and experience in the widely diverse programs administered in the Bureau have been invaluable. This coupled with his professional style and outstanding people skills have resulted in an outstanding career of enormous benefit to the citizens and natural resources of the state."
